Day 3 of Mourning:

An average 3-4 Canadian workers die each day on the job. Three or four families that said goodbye to their loved ones when they left for work in the morning, families that were never able to welcome them home at the end of the day again.

Young workers like us are statistically the most likely to be hurt on the job. Don't be a statistic: insist on safety training, use safety equipment at work, and always exercise your right to refuse unsafe work.

On Friday April 28th, The National Day of Mourning, remember those who have been injured or have died at work. Please, mourn them, but don't be one of the mourned – stay safe at work.
